Smiths News employs around 1,950 people worldwide and has business operations, directly or indirectly, in 10 countries, principally through its international media business, Dawson Media Direct Limited. We have registered subsidiary companies in France, Spain, Germany, USA, Hong Kong, Australia, Dubai, Belgium, Turkey and Thailand although these legal entities are currently dormant.

Our Anti-Slavery Position

Smiths News is fully committed to preventing acts of modern slavery and human trafficking from occurring within our businesses as well as our supply chains, and we impose the same standards on our suppliers as we apply to ourselves. We take a zero-tolerance approach to non-ethical practices and we are committed to acting professionally, fairly and with integrity in all our business dealings and supply chain relationships, wherever we operate, implementing and enforcing effective systems to uphold ethical standards and to combat modern slavery and human trafficking.

"Modern Slavery" for us means the exploitation of people who have been forced, deceived, or coerced into a life of labour and servitude, including human trafficking. Management, staff and suppliers are alert to the risks of modern day slavery and we have a reporting line to bring any concerns to the attention of management who will act on all reports.

We expect anyone who has any suspicions of modern slavery in our business or our supply chain to raise their concerns without delay. We will keep any information provided completely confidential.

Smiths News's Structure and Role in the Supply Chain

Our Structure

Smiths News is the UK's largest newspaper and magazine wholesaling business with an approximate 55% market share. We distribute newspapers and magazines on behalf of the major national and regional publishers, delivering to approximately 25,500 customers across England and Wales on a daily basis.

Dawson Media Direct supplies newspapers, magazines and inflight entertainment technology and content to over 80 airlines in 50 countries. Delivering to strict time windows with security accreditation, DMD serves the specialist needs of airlines and travel points in the UK and worldwide with printed and digital media.

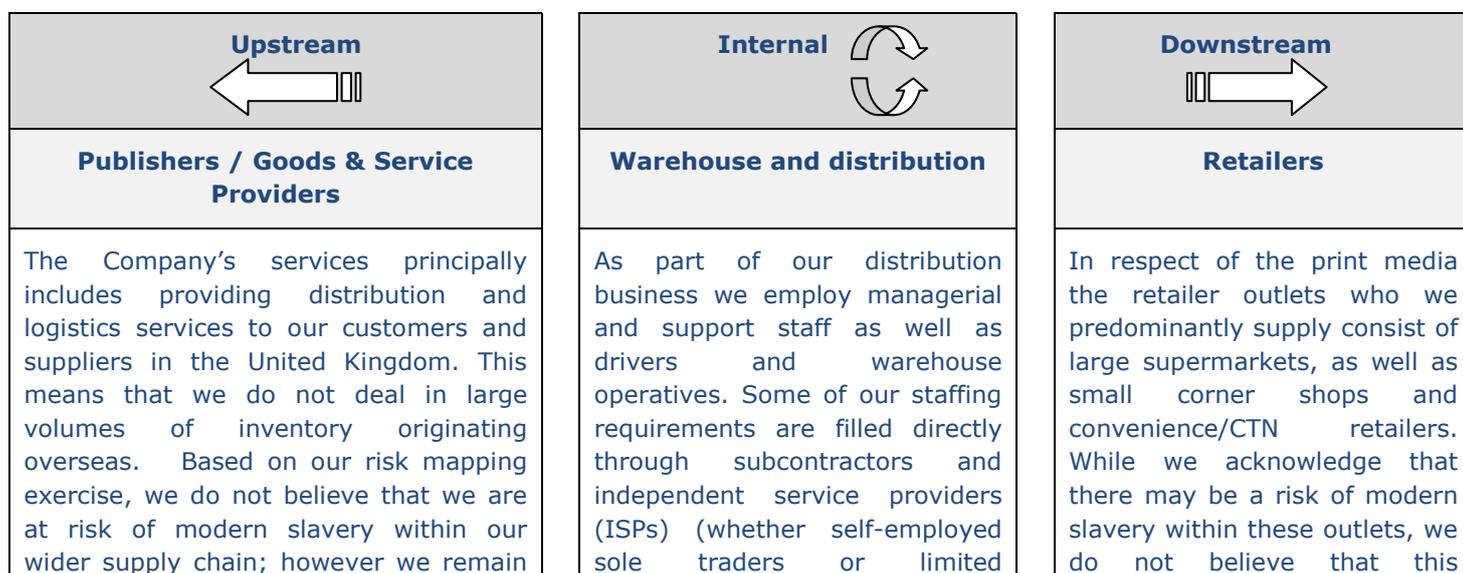

Outsourcing: In 2019/20 we established an outsourced finance, IT and customer experience function in India, with a specialist outsource service provider. As one of our core partners, our outsource service provider is committed to ensuring our standards and ethics are applied across our whole business and thus subscribes to our policies and procedures, specifically as applied to the prevention of modern slavery. A comprehensive due diligence process was undertaken with the outsource service provider prior to the conclusion of our agreement and they were found to robustly support an anti-modern slavery stance in line with best practice. We have a dedicated team of professional people situated in India with a Smiths News branded facility which meets our requirements, including in respect of health and safety standards. Senior management regularly visits the site and has oversight of the facility and direct engagement with the staff. We regularly carry out both internal and external audits of our overseas operations from a health & safety, colleague welfare, fit for purpose facilities and policies and compliance perspective.

Our Operating Model

We operate one of the fastest supply chains, seven days a week, delivering, collecting and processing returns across a fragmented customer base. The vast majority of our collections and deliveries are completed before 6.30am operating out of 39 depots. This requires a dedicated workteam of shift, contract and part-time workers. We acknowledge that this type of work has an inherent Modern Slavery risk to which we are alert.

We carefully monitor the sources of our workforce and our employment policies support the individuals’ right to offer their services in exchange for a fair wage. Due to the nature of the business we have a number of contracted and/or temporary workers. We have strict policies and processes to regulate how we deal with both recruitment agencies for the supply of temporary resource and independent service providers (ISPs) who provide composite delivery services across the business with the focus on an individual’s right to work in the relevant jurisdiction and ensure fair and transparent payment practices. We adhere to the minimum wage provisions and additional provisions applicable to night workers in respect of maximum weekly working hours and rest breaks.

Our Supply Chain (Up and Down Stream)

vigilant to the risk and continue to communicated to our suppliers and customers our expectations about the standards on which they conduct business.

The main product we distribute is print media which does present an area of indirect risk within our upstream supply chain through print and information technology suppliers, as well as paper mills, ink manufacturers and the sourcing of timber. Once again, we require our suppliers to comply with our policies and position on Modern Slavery and periodic audits will be undertaken as and when necessary.

In support of our main business, we also procure goods and services which range from consultancy and cleaning services, to electronic equipment, uniforms and stationery, to mention but a few. We acknowledge that a number of these indirect or "non-distribution" goods and services may be at risk of Modern Slavery. We currently require all suppliers to commit to our Modern Slavery position and remain vigilant to any emerging risks. Our procurement department also undertakes periodic screening as part of the appointment and renewal process for suppliers.

companies) and agency staff through temporary labour agencies. We believe that the risk of modern slavery within our direct and indirect workforce is low; however, we acknowledge that the risks are high within the recruitment practices of third party labour providers and/or subcontractors. As detailed further in this statement, we take steps to increase our understanding of this risk and to ensure that we are in the best position to respond effectively.

As regards the in-flight entertainment products that are supplied to airlines and other travel points through Dawson Media Direct, we remain open to investigating and understanding the risk of modern slavery within the travel and aviation industry, but currently this is not an area which we have identified, for our purposes, as a high risk.

Policies

As part of our commitment to combating modern slavery, we have implemented the policies listed below. We have also initiated a Policy Steerco which consists of key functional team representation from across our business to help monitor industry and legal developments, share best practice and explore methods of communication and training. This Policy Steerco ensures that our policies are regularly reviewed and updated where necessary. We have a process of communicating our policies (new and revised) to ensure all of our workforce are properly informed, including adopting web based induction processes and refresher training.

- Ethical Trading Policy;
- Procurement Policy and Supplier Code;
- Dignity at Work Policy;
- Code of Business Conduct;
- Anti-Bribery Policy;
- Anti-Fraud Policy;
- Whistleblowing Policy;
- Open Door Policy.

We also make sure that our suppliers are aware of our key policies and Code of Business Conduct through our procurement portal's "supplier zone", and we encourage them to adhere to the same high standards, including ensuring that they hold their own suppliers to the same standards. These policies have been developed and adopted by Smiths News in order to ensure that we conduct all business in an honest and ethical manner.

Governance, Risk and Compliance

Our Governance

We recognise that Modern Slavery is not something that only happens elsewhere and note that the UK Government estimates there are tens of thousands of people in slavery in Britain today with UK nationals making up the biggest group of potential victims.

At an operational level, the nature and extent of our exposure to the risk of Modern Slavery occurring in our business, as well as our supply chains, is periodically reviewed. However, a formal risk assessment process is being developed and implemented by our employee relations team, our procurement team, and our sub-contractor management team under the direction of senior management. The Executive Team and our Board of Directors exercise overall oversight and responsibility.

Our Risk Process

As part of our risk mapping process we have developed management guidelines based on the criteria set out in the table below. We believe these criteria are the main indicators of modern day slavery risks within our business and have been determined through desk top analysis with reference to various sources¹. This process enables us to identify, assess, mitigate and monitor our main risks, which have been identified as follows:

Criteria	Pre-mitigation position	Identified risks	Ongoing Action / Mitigation Colour code: Residual risk rating	Ongoing monitoring and assessment / Due Diligence

Criteria	Pre-mitigation position	Identified risks	Ongoing Action / Mitigation Colour code: Residual risk rating	Ongoing monitoring and assessment / Due Diligence
Geographic context	Our main areas of operation are in the UK (England and Wales). We recognise and acknowledge the importance of a proportion of our workforce are not UK nationals; however, as the majority are employees and therefore subject to best practice 'right to work' checks, we believe that the recruitment process mitigates against modern slavery risks.	Sourcing of labour from high risk countries	We continue to review our relationships with both recruitment agencies for the supply of permanent and temporary resource and our relationships with subcontractors and independent service providers (ISPs) who provide composite delivery services across the Group. We will continue to look to audit the capability of these agencies and the ISPs against our key policies and Code of Business Conduct, together with checking references and verifying payment practices.	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. While we believe we are doing everything reasonably practicable to limit the opportunity and incidents of modern slavery within our own business as well as our supply chain, we do however remain alive to the potential risk. 2. Before we commence dealings with a new supplier, we will look to conduct a risk-based assessment and may then audit their practices, policies and procedures using our standard modern slavery due diligence questionnaire, with an increasing focus on the suppliers' ethical trading standards. 3. Before we commence dealings with a delivery contractor or ISP, we will seek to apply best practice and look to audit their right to work in the United Kingdom, ensuring that such labour is not forced and ensure that pay is made direct to the recipient's own bank account.
Type of industry and workers	The nature of the work of Smiths News includes an inherent risk of modern slavery due to its time sensitive nature and the aspects of difficult and labour intensive work. Some of our workers may be "at risk" people as they may be foreign workers from areas with high levels of unemployment, may be employed on a temporary basis and / or may be employed through labour brokers, agents or independent service providers (ISPs) and thus become removed from employer obligations.	Temporary / foreign / ISP or agency workers		<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 4. Where we source new products and/or services we will periodically undertake supplier audits, whether conducted internally or through external agencies, together with checking supplier references with external third parties. 5. We seek to ensure that all our suppliers adhere to our ethical standards and

Criteria	Pre-mitigation position	Identified risks	Ongoing Action / Mitigation Colour code: Residual risk rating	Ongoing monitoring and assessment / Due Diligence
Manner of remuneration	At risk people may be paid per hour, receive cash payments, be at the minimum wage level and/or may not be paid overtime. Workers may not be paid directly but paid through agencies or independent service providers (ISPs)	Non-direct payment of workers		anti-slavery policies and provide a copy of our Ethical Trading Policy to each supplier. Our standard terms of purchase, available via our procurement portal supplier zone and on all of our purchase orders, cross refer to our Ethical Trading Policy requirement.
Benefits and Protection	Some of the contracted and/or temporary staff may be 'at risk' and may not receive pension benefits. Such workers are generally not represented by any labour organisations / trade unions and do not have access to legal remedies.	Limited worker access to pensions, and representation	We strictly adhere to health & safety requirements, continuously strive to improve our position beyond compliance, report our H&S performance measured against our 'lost time incidents' standard. Through our colleague forums we have sought to create a safe space for conversations with workers and, separately, we ensure that any whistleblowers or persons who raise concerns are adequately protected and supported	6. We will continue to implement contractual protections in our dealings with certain suppliers to reinforce our ethical standards and anti-slavery policies. 7. We enforce a strict code of compliance and do not tolerate slavery or human trafficking within our supply chains – if we find evidence of a failure to comply with our policies we will terminate our relationship with the relevant supplier.

Training

We have acquired and are implementing a policy compliance training module which includes a dedicated Modern Slavery element, and we look to educate our staff to recognise the risks of modern slavery and human trafficking in our business and supply chains. Through such education programmes and ad hoc monitoring of suppliers, employees are encouraged to identify and report any potential breaches of this anti-slavery and human trafficking policy (or any other policy).

We strongly believe that we should work with suppliers in a collaborative manner and that it will not benefit marginalised and "at risk" people if we simply terminated suppliers where concerns are identified. We believe in constructive engagement through education and training programmes, coupled with capacity building, both internally and within our supply chains, to identify and address any problem. As part of this approach, we will look to support "at risk groups" identified within our supply chain wherever possible and to ensure they are made aware of their rights and provided with the necessary support structures to limit the scope for abuse. While we recognise the reputational dangers of non-compliance within our supply chains we believe that it is more beneficial to work for change and improvement rather than removing a supplier and leaving the abuse unresolved.
